Libidextra Women

The care you need for the satisfaction you desire

Modern society expects a woman to seamlessly combine her roles as a housewife, an attentive mother, a successful business woman, and an attractive lover.

These members of the so-called fairer sex are expected to live and work wearing many hats at the same time. In this world of endless responsibilities and expectations, it is so easy to stop paying attention to your needs and devoting time to self care.

A women often stops considering herself desirable and sexy. This leads her becoming more isolated and leads to less intimacy with her partner.

No more sex: What women are worried about

Every year new studies confirm that women are increasingly experiencing:

- A lack of sex drive*
- Psychological distress due to decreased libido**
- Problems in their sex lives that progress with age***

How problems in a woman's sex life manifest themselves:

Reduced libido

Difficulty
being aroused

Lack of orgasm

Libido refers to sexual attraction, a desire for sexual activity. These can be thoughts, fantasies of a sexual nature and/or a desire for sexual intercourse. It can either precede sexual intercourse or occur during the process.

Women are most often bothered by these problems in their sex lives:

The lack of desire

Not being able to orgasm

No arousal

Not being satisfied

Vaginal dryness

Painful sex

A reduced libido may be the result of:

Stress

Being overworked

Lack of sleep

Bad habits (like smoking and drinking alcohol)

Maintaining poor eating habits

Mental and physical overexertion

Similarly, a reduced libido can be caused by:

Premenstrual syndrome (PMS)

more than 90% of women experience symptoms of premenstrual syndrome*

Menopause

The unpleasant symptoms of menopause (such as hot flashes and night sweats) are experienced by up to 70% of women during this hormonal transition period**.

Game of Hormones

How hormonal changes impact a woman's sex drive:

The female hormone group is estrogens (the most active of which is estradiol) and the male hormone group is androgens (the key one is testosterone) play an important role in awakening your desire and sex drive.

How hormones affect a woman's sex drive

C18H24O2

Estradiol

- Supports the arousal intensity and orgasm
- Helps improve the quality of sex
- Promotes feminine physical attractiveness

C19H28O2

Testosterone

- Helps regulate sex drive
- Promotes an energetic and invigorated sexual experience

A healthy body means a healthy libido

When a woman is sexually aroused, blood flow increases to her pelvic organs and breasts. This is how a woman becomes physically ready for intimacy, which is impossible without real desire.
